

Radio in my city is dominated by mainstream pop music, and so I appreciate the need for an alternative to satellite-fed "junk music". LPFM is a great way to provide this alternative. I would ask the FCC to consider how its current policies have helped create the situation we find ourselves in today, and to move toward creating a policy that ends the monopolistic dominance of junk music!